

Bendo All In :

Plays like Wild Draw Variation except the fact that the game does not end when one of the player plays all his or her tiles, the game continues until just one player is left with tiles in his or her hands. The scoring is also different as explained below :

Scoring :

If 4 players are playing :

The first player to get rid of all his or her pieces scores 40 points, the second scores 20 points and the third 10 points. The last player scores 0 points.

If 3 players are playing :

The first player to get rid of all his or her pieces scores 40 points, the second scores 20 points . The last player scores 0 points.

If 2 players are playing :

The first player to get rid of all his or her pieces scores 40 points, the other one scores 0 points.

NOTE : If the game is blocked (ie: more than one player have still pieces in their hands but cannot play), the winning order is defined by the number of points left in each hand :

The player with the less points will be first and the player with the most points will be last.

Points are calculated according the scoring rule below :

Numbers count for face value

Arrow and Plus Actions count for 10 points each

Wild stars count for 20 points each

Players advance their marker according to the number of points they won.

Winning the Game :

First player to reach at least 100 points wins the game.

If more than one player reach 100 points during the same round, the player with the highest final score wins the game.

Great for 4 players: « Bendo All In » Team Play

Each player takes 5 dominoes. Opposite players are partners.

The game plays the same, except that the first player to get rid of all his or her pieces scores 30 points for his or her team, the second 20 points and the third 10 points. The last player scores 0 points. The scores are kept by team and not individually.

The first team to reach 100 points wins the game.

Variation on a Variation : if played “Caribbean Style” , each the 4 players takes 7 dominoes so there is no stock. This one is for the experts. All other rules apply.
